We are requested to announce that there will be a meeting of Garvin township at Bethany, on next Thursday, the 16th inst., at 10 o'clock, A. M., to discuss the fence question. Messrs. R. W. Simpson, T. H. Russell and Larkin Newton have been invited to discuss the subject.

Last Monday was a very quiet Saleday, although quite a number of persons gathered from the country. There were no sales of any consequence, and aside from the discussions of the fence law, there was little of any interest connected with the day.

Our friend, B. A. Davis, of Savannah township, has replaced his mill-dam, which washed away, by a new and substantial one which it is thought will stand the storms. The mill is now in fine grinding order, and it is to be supplemented in due time with a first class cotton gin.

In voting upon the fence question, tenants should remember that by adopting the change they will bring from fifty to one hundred thousand acres of land into cultivation which now lies idle. The number of tenants would not be increased, and therefore the demand for labor would be greater, and better terms would be given to thrifty

The excursion train, which left Charleston on last Monday for Greenville and Anderson, did not arrive until a very late hour in the night-between three and four o'clock a. m. of Tuesday. There were two trains aggregating twelve passenger coaches. About two hundred and twenty-five persons stopped at Anderson to attend the Fair Association and Grange meeting. The passensers on the train complain greatly of the railroad management of the excursion, and think they were unnecessarily delayed. The pic nic at Ebonezer on last Friday was a grand success, and secured the attendance of about six hundred ladies and gentlemen. Thrilling temperance speeches wer made in the morning, and in the afternoon strong speeches were made in favor of the change of the fence system. One of the most interesting features of the day was the splendid pic nic dinner, which had been most abundantly carried out by the hospitable people of the neighborhood. The occasion was a complete success, and the members of the Temperance Division, under whose auspices the meeting was conducted can congratulate themselves upon the good order and pleasure of the day.

Mr. J. Blair Prevost was stricken with paralysis on last Monday night while awaiting the arrival of the train at the depot, between nine and ten o'clock, p. m. He was immediately removed to his new residence near by, which he had only recently remodeled and moved into. Physicians were dispatched for promptly, and everything that medical skill or the attention of friend could do was done to relieve him, but all have been without success so far, as he has been unable to weak since his attack, and is now lingering in a very critical condi-tion. THE WIDOWS APPRAL IN BEHALF OF

THE "NO FENCE" OR STOCK LAW. MR. EDITOR: A significant fact was elicited recently in a neighboring township in Pickens County. In Salubrity Township the friends of the proposed law started out with a petition to hold an election in said township, and on going the rounds and readil obtaining the necessary number, it was ascertained that they had the names of twenty-one widows to the petition, every one of whom is warmly in favor of the law. Nearly all these widows became so, by the death of their husbands while engaged in gallantly battling for our dearest rights. What now becomes of the argument of some of the opposers of the measure in Anderson, that it would hurt the poer man and the widow. One of these widows, Mrs. Martha Boggs, the wife of Maj. T. H. Boggs of the 2nd Regiment of Rifles, has tried the plan of enclosing her cattle for years, and, like everybody else that has tried it, knows that it is the best. The gallantry of the men of Salubrity Township ensures a favorable response to the widow's appeal.

I know I really have no normal right to say a word, or to vote on the question, it being a question of an agrizens of Anderson to-day, advocating the cultural nature, not connected with politics, and wholly belonging to the landowner, and it is presumption in me to say whether you as a landowner shall have made on your plantation every winter three thouhope his visit to Anderson will prove a sand rails or three hundred. What, sir, bury $500 out n the woods where you cannot get one cent of profit from it for many years to come? No, sir, never! Pass the new fence law, sell the fifty acres to me that I may now have a home, put the $500 into an investment, and Again, Mr. Editor, as I am a renter, and may never be able to own land, if the fence law can be changed I am sure it will by far be better for me. It will cause more than an one thousand acres of land to be brought into cultivation in this County that otherwise cannot be. You see that will give me a better chance as a renter to get better land to cultivate. The landowner can afford to give a better chance as a renter to get better land to cultivate. The landowner can afford to give a better chance on good land, and will let his poor land rest, it not being pastured by other people's stock will improve and soon get good again. And I, seeing the benefits that would result to me as a renter, would be a great fool not to desire the change; I would be a great fool not to desire the change; I would be a great fool not to desire the change; I would be a great fool not to desire the change; I would be a great fool not to desire the stock lawl may not the subject by having a conversation the other day with a gentlemen from North Carolina, Mecklenburg County. He said in that County, where he came from, the stock law had been in force five years. At first the people were greatly divided. The County went for the new law only by avery small majority, and there was some dissatisfaction the first and second years. But now all were perfectly satisfied, and would not go back to the old law for any consideration, and the County was the most prosperous in an agricultural point of view of any in the State. They had improved their stock, had turned their attention to home-made fertilizers and improved farming implements and the grasses, and many renters had been able to get little homes for their families.

Mr. Editor, I do hope the change will take place, so I may get a little home for my control of the proper state of the proper stat family, and then let me me tell you what I intend to do: I will take one acre and make it rich, and make it feed one milk cow a whole year. By planting some of the grasses, the German millet, I think it will do it, and I will make that cow feed that acre every year and keep it rich. By havng a good stall for the cow, floored water tight, cover the floor with top carth, put in a layer of course litter to absorb and mix with the manure. When properly mixed shovel it out and put under a shelter in a compost heap. I can now imagine what a fine quantity I could make, almost equal to House Furnishing Goods, &C. guano, from one cow-enough to keep one acre rich from year to year. Making one cre feed one cow, one cow feed one acre and the result at a very low calculation will be that cow will average three gallons of milk per day; the milk churned will make one pound of butter per day, three hundred nd sixty-five pounds in the year at 20cts per pound, make $73; then the eleven hunired gallons of butter-milk at 10cts, to feed pigs, will be 3110 more, added to the butter, making $183 from one acre and one ow. Why, Mr. Editor, I could get rich if they would just pass the new fence law, so I could get a few acres of land as a home for myself, my family and my cow.

MESSES. EDITORS: As the time for the election on fence or no fence is drawing to a lose, if you will allow me space I will make few more remarks on the subject. I think those in favor of fencing the stock are pushing the matter too fast. Better let wellenough alone until the people have time to discuss the matter from house to house ng themselves, for it is dividing the people, and arraying race against race. The people are not prepared for the change so suddenly. It would be far better to give time for reflection, for if they are forced into the measure before their minds are prepared for it, it will cause dissatisfaction. If the change will work so advantageously for everybody as those who favor the plan inform us, why hurry it through without weighing the matter on both sides. It seems to me to be altogether a one-sided affair, for those opposed to the change have no one to speak for them, and there appears but few pieces in the papers against it; nevertheless, there are a great many white and nearly all the colored people in opposition to it. This, I fear, will make mischief politically. The writer, though opposed to the change, not on his own account, is a strong Democrat, and would greatly deplore any further trou-ble politically, and I think it would be the part of wisdom to give time for reflection before precipitating the change. That there will be some advantages there is no doubt, but there will be in my opinion as many disadvantages to counterbalance the good and this will fall on the widow and others in like circumstances. Think of the trouble and expense it will put them to, and they are forced to the change without time for making their arrangements, as the law, if carried out, will go into effect in January.

One of the most unjust features in the law is that it proposes to run through any man's land, thereby destroying his timber without permission or remuneration, and this is certainly unjust. And how are the people to make their own meat, when they are compelled to reduce their stock to one cow and one hog? This, I think will work well for the drovers. How will those people do who have no means of making a pasture? who have, perhaps, a cow and calf, sow and pigs, and no place to put them. These are things that should be considered, for the poor shall not cease from the land. This will make more subjects for the almshouse. Would it not be better for humanity's sake for those whom the change will benefit to forego that blessing for the well, ye advocates of the change, before you plunge very many families into distress and ruin, while you may be exulting over your victory, and over the poor and unfortunate. Many of these poor are widows and cannot vote, and must submit to the majority of the rich. The oppression of the poor is the cause of the trouble now existing in the Middle States. The laboring classes will be sure to feel the improper effects of the no much the fence of a small farm costs, say a one hundred acre tract; make the calculation. If you purchase one hundred acres at $1,000, you can run a one horse farm on it, and cultivate about thirty-five acres, including small grain, then cut off fifteen acres for fire-wood and to make a pasture fence and keep that fence up, you have fifty acres left it, must keep it to make fences. Well, it cost you $500. Why, you say, do you mean that the fence of a one horse farm cost $500? Yes, that is just what I mean to say, and just what everybody will be compelled to admit if they will think a little in that direction. $500 is the cost of the fifty acres at the outset, when the purchase was made; then the interest lost on that amount every year at 10 per cent, is $50; the labor of fenc-

This is a compound remedy, prepared with scientific skill from vegetable ingredients which rarely falls to cur, the severest cases of Chills and Fever and the concomitant disorders. Such a remedy the necessities of the people in malarious districts demand. Its great superfortly over any other medicine yet discovered for the cure of Intermittents is, that it contains no quinine or mineral, and those who take it are free from danger of quinism or any injurious effects, and are as healthy after using it as before. It has been extensively employed during the last thirty years in the treatment of these dist saing disorders, and so unvarying has been its success that it has gained the renutation of being infallible. It can, be safely recommended as a sure remedy and specific for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South, which, once broken up by it, do not return until the disease is again contracted.

The great variety of disorders which arise from the irritation of this poison, such as Meuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blindness, Toothache, Earnche, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitation, Splenic Affections, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Colle, Paralysis, and derangement of the Stomach, all of which become intermittent or periodical, have no speedier remedy than Aver's Ague Cere, which cures them all alike, and protects the system from future attacks. HARD TIMES.—There is no doubt but the present condition of all kinds of butiness and industry is fearfully depressed, and it behooves every family to look carefully to their expenses at this season when diseases of the liver, skin stomach and bowels are so prevalent, the health of your family should not be neglected. Doctor's bills are expensive, and we would advise our people to use Simmon's Hepatic Compound. It never has failed. One bottle will keep your whole family well all summer. Two doses will cure the worst case of Dyspepsia, Indigestion or Liver Complaint. Try it.
